Forecast For East Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 07 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Chilly start Friday night. Clouding over. Wet on Saturday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Evening showers will soon die out to leave all areas dry with some clear spells for a time. Turning chilly initially, before cloud increases and thickens from the southwest after midnight. Rain arriving by dawn with strengthening winds. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Saturday:
Cloudy and wet with some heavy rain at times through Saturday morning. Turning a bit drier later and feeling milder, but quite breezy with occasionally strong winds. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Overnight rain dying out with cloud breaking during Sunday morning with some sunshine developing. Thundery showers possible later. Bright with further showers into next week. Often windy and remaining cool.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.